

Diana von Cranach

Diana von Cranach was born in the UK and after being Cordon Bleu trained, decided that she had to find her own style of cooking.

After completing a degree in Egyptology at Heidelberg University and running her own successful interior design business, she moved to the northwest corner of Bali in 1996 to open a small but very special and personal resort, Puri Ganesha Villas.

In 2005, Diana began to develop her unique, 'rawfully good' interpretation of the 'living' food movement that had begun in the US in the 1990's.

Since then she has been a guest chef at many hotels throughout the region and will be opening the first ethno-botanical restaurant Elephant Vert in Luang Prabang, Laos very soon.